

Key Tools at Christmas: ideas for framing, unwinding and connecting with God

The Key Tools aren't just for Christmas - they're great to use at any time of the year! But here are some simple ways to get kids of all ages chatting and catching with God, having great conversations and thinking about who God is in this Christmas season.

Tell God the bit of Christmas when you feel closest to him

Tell God which part of the Christmas story you'd like to change and why

Tell God about your best bit of Christmas

Five ideas for chatting to God

Tell God what you're worried about this Christmas

Tell God who you're looking forward to seeing at Christmas

Ask God to show you what one thing he'd like to do, just you and him, this Christmas

Read the Christmas story with God and see what he shows you

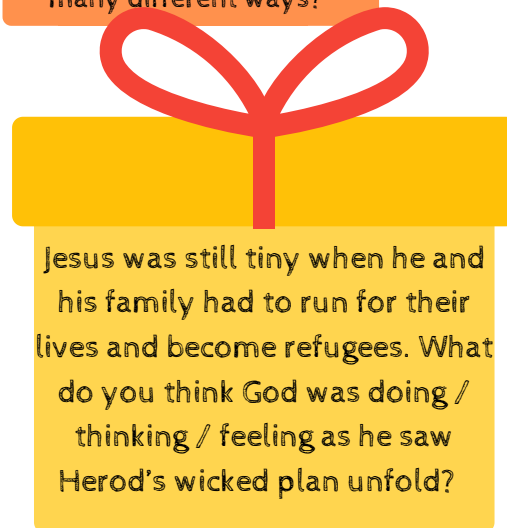

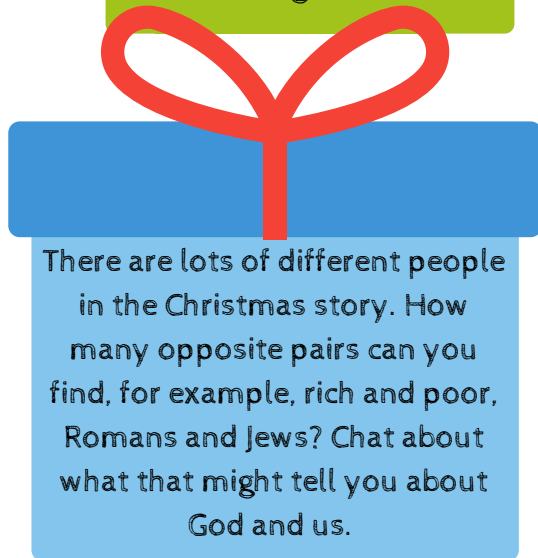

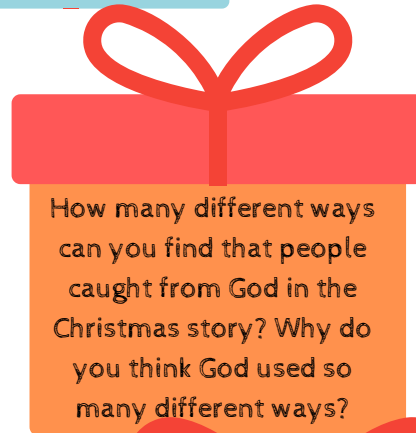

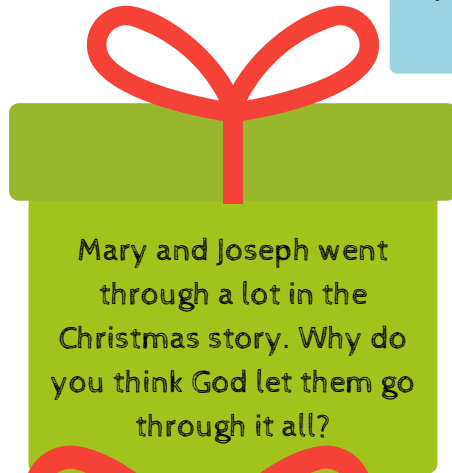

Five ideas for catching from God

Ask God what jobs he has for your family to do this Christmas

Ask God one thing he doesn't like about Christmas time

In all the busyness, find a quiet space inside or outside and ask God to come close to you

Five ideas for thinking about who God is at Christmas

Ten ideas for starting an interesting Christmas conversation

The Magi had a very long journey to Bethlehem. What do you think they talked about on the way?

What's one thing you wish God had done differently at Christmas? Why?

Who is one character from a Christmas movie who is like God? Why?

The Bible tells us a lot about Jesus' birth. Why are you glad they included this part of the story?

What present would God like this Christmas?

The Bible says that when Jesus was born, the shepherds bowed down and the angels sang. What would you have done?

Which carol do you think does a good job of telling the Christmas story? Why?

If you could change one thing about the way we do Christmas what would it be?

Which character in the nativity story are you most like, and why?

How is God like Father Christmas? How is he not?